n","description":"## What Is Ethereum (ETH)?\n\nEthereum is a decentralized open-source blockchain system that features its own cryptocurrency, Ether. ETH works as a platform for numerous other cryptocurrencies, as well as for the execution of decentralized smart contracts.\n\nEthereum was first described in a 2013 whitepaper by Vitalik Buterin. Buterin, along with other co-founders, secured funding for the project in an online public crowd sale in the summer of 2014 and officially launched the blockchain on July 30, 2015.\n\nEthereum's own purported goal is to become a global platform for decentralized applications, allowing users from all over the world to write and run software that is resistant to censorship, downtime and fraud.\n\n\n### Who Are the Founders of Ethereum?\n\nEthereum has a total of eight co-founders — an unusually large number for a crypto project. They first met on June 7, 2014, in Zug, Switzerland.\n\n* Russian-Canadian Vitalik Buterin is perhaps the best known of the bunch. He authored the original white paper that first described Ethereum in 2013 and still works on improving the platform to this day. Prior to ETH, Buterin co-founded and wrote for the Bitcoin Magazine news website.\n\n* British programmer Gavin Wood is arguably the second most important co-founder of ETH, as he coded the first technical implementation of Ethereum in the C++ programming language, proposed Ethereum's native programming language Solidity and was the first chief technology officer of the Ethereum Foundation. Before Ethereum, Wood was a research scientist at Microsoft. Afterward, he moved on to establish the Web3 Foundation.\n\nAmong the other co-founders of Ethereum are: - Anthony Di Iorio, who underwrote the project during its early stage of development. - Charles Hoskinson, who played the principal role in establishing the Swiss-based Ethereum Foundation and its legal framework. - Mihai Alisie, who provided assistance in establishing the Ethereum Foundation. - Joseph Lubin, a Canadian entrepreneur, who, like Di Iorio, has helped fund Ethereum during its early days, and later founded an incubator for startups based on ETH called ConsenSys. - Amir Chetrit, who helped co-found Ethereum but stepped away from it early into the development.\n\n\n#### What Makes Ethereum Unique?\n\nEthereum has pioneered the concept of a blockchain smart contract platform. Smart contracts are computer programs that automatically execute the actions necessary to fulfill an agreement between several parties on the internet. They were designed to reduce the need for trusted intermediates between contractors, thus reducing transaction costs while also increasing transaction reliability.\n\nEthereum's principal innovation was designing a platform that allowed it to execute smart contracts using the blockchain, which further reinforces the already existing benefits of smart contract technology. Ethereum's blockchain was designed, according to co-founder Gavin Wood, as a sort of "one computer for the entire planet," theoretically able to make any program more robust, censorship-resistant and less prone to fraud by running it on a globally distributed network of public nodes.\n\nIn addition to smart contracts, Ethereum's blockchain is able to host other cryptocurrencies, called "tokens," through the use of its ERC-20 compatibility standard. In fact, this has been the most common use for the ETH platform so far: to date, more than 280,000 ERC-20-compliant tokens have been launched. Over 40 of these make the top-100 cryptocurrencies by market capitalization, for example, USDT, LINK and BNB.\n\n#### Related Pages:\n\nNew to crypto? Read our blog!\n\n\n#### How Many Ethereum (ETH) Coins Are There In Circulation? \n\nIn August 2020, there were around 112 million ETH coins in circulation, 72 million of which were issued in the genesis block — the first ever block on the Ethereum blockchain. Of these 72 million, 60 million were allocated to the initial contributors to the 2014 crowd sale that funded the project, and 12 million were given to the development fund.\n\nThe remaining amount has been issued in the form of block rewards to the miners on the Ethereum network. The original reward in 2015 was 5 ETH per block, which later went down to 3 ETH in late 2017 and then to 2 ETH in early 2019. The average time it takes to mine an Ethereum block is around 13-15 seconds.\n\nOne of the major differences between Bitcoin and Ethereum's economics is that the latter is not deflationary, i.e. its total supply is not limited. Ethereum's developers [justify] (https://docs.ethhub.io/ethereum-basics/monetary-policy/) this by not wanting to have a "fixed security budget" for the network. Being able to adjust ETH's issuance rate via consensus allows the network to maintain the minimum issuance needed for adequate security.\n\n\n#### How Is the Ethereum Network Secured?\nAs of August 2020, Ethereum is secured via the Ethash proof-of-work algorithm, belonging to the Keccak family of hash functions.\n\nThere are plans, however, to transition the network to a proof-of-stake algorithm tied to the major [Ethereum 2.0] (https://coinmarketcap.com/alexandria/article/a-dive-into-ethereum-2-0) update, which launched in late 2020.\n\nAfter the Ethereum 2.0 Beacon Chain (Phase 0) went live in the beginning of December 2020, it became possible to begin staking on the Ethereum 2.0 network. An Ethereum stake is when you deposit ETH (acting as a validator) on Ethereum 2.0 by sending it to a deposit contract, basically acting as a miner and thus securing the network. At the time of writing in mid-December 2020, the Ethereum stake price, or the amount of money earned daily by Ethereum validators, is about 0.00403 ETH a day, or $2.36. This number will change as the network develops and the amount of stakers (validators) increase.\n\nEthereum staking rewards are determined by a distribution curve (the participation and average percent of stakers): some ETH 2.0 staking rewards are at 20% for early stakers, but will be lowered to end up between 7% and 4.5% annually.\n\nThe minimum requirements for an Ethereum stake are 32 ETH. If you decide to stake in Ethereum 2.0, it means that your Ethereum stake will be locked up on the network for months, if not years, in the future until the Ethereum 2.0 upgrade is completed.\n\n\n#### Where Can You Buy Ethereum (ETH)?\n\nGiven the fact that Ethereum is the second-largest cryptocurrency after Bitcoin, it is possible to buy Ethereum, or use ETH trading pairs on nearly all of the major crypto exchanges. Some of the largest markets include:\n\n* Binance\n* Coinbase Pro\n* OKEx\n* Kraken\n* Huobi Global","dateAdded":"2015-08-07T00:00:00.000Z","status":"active","notice":"","latestUpdateTime":"2021-05-24T00:09:02.000Z","watchCount":"1301548","tags":[{"slug":"mineable","name":"Mineable","category":"OTHER"},{"slug":"pow","name":"PoW","category":"CONSENSUS_ALGORITHM"},{"slug":"smart-contracts","name":"Smart Contracts","category":"PROPERTY"},{"slug":"ethereum","name":"Ethereum","category":"PLATFORM"},{"slug":"coinbase-ventures-portfolio","name":"Coinbase Ventures Portfolio","category":"PROPERTY"},{"slug":"three-arrows-capital-portfolio","name":"Three Arrows Capital Portfolio","category":"PROPERTY"},{"slug":"polychain-capital-portfolio","name":"Polychain Capital Portfolio","category":"PROPERTY"},{"slug":"binan

Selenium webscraping Coinmarketcap

In this section I will be using Selenium's libary to webscrape through Coinmarketcap to extract elements that are not appearing when using BeautifulSoup.

Advantages for using Selenium:

In [16]:
```
driver= webdriver.Chrome(executable_path="C:/Users/egust/chromedriver.exe") # Driver Location on your computer webdriver.remote.webelement.WebElement

url = 'https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/ethereum/news/' # website to scrap e driver.get(url) # Scraping
time.sleep(5)
```

In [68]:
```
websites = driver.find_elements_by_xpath("//a[@class='dgjl35-0 dJpHnE cmc-lin k']")
```

In [98]:
```python
websites_ = []

for i in range(len(websites)):
    websites_.append(websites[i].get_attribute('href'))

websites_
```
